V. SUMMARY OF COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT ACTIVITIES

The Committee laid out a number of overarching goals for Council Period 23. These goals were supported in large part by conducting public, transparent hearings and roundtables where the Committee could hear testimony on issues of interest to the Committee and press agency heads for more accountability. Those goals are listed below, with a brief description of activities the Committee took in furtherance of those goals.

- Improve Services at the Department of Consumer and Regulatory Affairs: Focus efforts on efficient operations and quality service delivery by the Department of Consumer and Regulatory Affairs.

In addition to two agency performance oversight and two budget oversight hearings regarding the Department of Consumer and Regulatory Affairs, as well as a number of hearings on bills directly concerning the agency, the Committee conducted four oversight on various aspects of the Department throughout the course of the Council Period. During a hearing at the beginning of the Council Period asking the public what the Committee should focus on, nearly 20 individuals provided testimony on issues such as housing code enforcement, illegal construction, and business licensing processes. The Committee held three other public oversight hearings in Council Period 23 on incidents or issues related to DCRA, including public hearings on the implementation of short-term rental regulations and DCRA's response to housing code violations at 708 Kennedy Street N.W. that resulted in the deaths of Fitsum Kebede and Yafet Solomon.

The tragic, avoidable deaths at Kennedy Street, as well as continued complaints from the public about DCRA's ineffectiveness at addressing housing code and illegal construction violations made it clear to the Committee that incremental reforms are not enough to improve the agency's performance. Thus, Chairman Mendelson re-introduced legislation from Council Period 22, the "Department of Buildings Establishment Act of 2019" which would take some of the most troubling parts of DCRA dealing with building safety and regulation and put them in a new agency that can focus on that important mission. The Committee held a hearing on that proposal on December 10, 2019 where most public witnesses testified in support of the bill. The Committee marked up the legislation on December 1, 2020.

- Support Fair and Reasonable Land Use Policies: Oversight of land use policies in the District including issuance of special exceptions and variances from zoning regulations, adherence to the regulations by the zoning administrator, and implementation of a revised Comprehensive Land Use Plan for the District of Columbia.

The Committee believes that fair and reasonable land use policies can contribute to solutions for a number of the issues facing the District. It is essential that the District maintain its rich historic and cultural resources while looking at new policies to encourage inclusive development and affordable housing for District residents. An important part of this is the several boards and commissions that are charged with carrying out the District's land use policies, including the Zoning Commission, Board of Zoning Adjustment, and the Historic Preservation Review Board. The Committee held hearings and marked up the following nominations to those boards and commissions, ensuring that the boards had highly qualified candidates meeting requirements, and could continue their work without delay: BZA (Fred Hill, Chair), HPRB (Linda Greene, Outerbridge Horsey, Matthew Bell, Marnique Heath, Chair, Sandra Jowers-Barber, and Alexandra Jones.) The Committee has been forceful in ensuring that members of those boards understand the time commitment needed to serve, had appropriate qualifications, and a thorough understanding of decision-making criteria.

The Committee focused on the recent rise in appeals of land use decisions by the Zoning Commission. To appropriately address this issue, the Committee provided funding and directed that the Office of Zoning and the Office of the Attorney General to move legal staff to permanent positions in the Office of Zoning, and to review processes to ensure that Zoning Commission orders were thorough, accurate, timely, and defensible. In addition, the Committee's changes to the Framework Element of the Comprehensive Plan, provided clarity on the role of the Zoning Commission and its use of the Comprehensive Plan policies and maps in discretionary land use decisions.

- Improving the District's Public Education Sector: Focus on strengthening the District's public education sector from pre-K to postsecondary through oversight over the District of Columbia Public Schools (DCPS), the District's public charter schools, and the University of the District of Columbia (UDC).

In order to bring greater focus and more oversight to the District's public education sector, the Committee of the Whole, in conjunction with the Committee on Education, subsumed joint oversight responsibility over the District's public education sector during Council Period (CP) 22. The Committee was focused on strengthening oversight over DCPS, identifying ways to combat chronic absenteeism and truancy, providing at-risk students with greater access to a high-quality education, finding strategies to reopen schools safely despite the COVID-19 pandemic, and mitigating the learning loss that has occurred because of it.

Since 2006 DCPS has been under mayoral control in order to spur faster and greater academic progress in the District. While DCPS has made steady progress over the last 10 years, much work remains to be done. Thus, the Committee of the Whole and the Committee on Education held various joint oversight hearings on special education services, supporting at-risk students, increasing transparency in DCPS's budgeting process, increasing stakeholder involvement in the policymaking process, and other regulations and initiatives that DCPS has implemented. Moreover, at the beginning of CP 22, DCPS had been through a persistent state of transition due to the revolving door of chancellors. However, in February 2019, the Committee approved PR 23-67, the "Chancellor of the District of Columbia Public Schools Dr. Lewis D. Ferebee Confirmation Resolution of 2019," with the hope that Chancellor Ferebee would be able to spur DCPS to greater and faster progress.

Yet to achieve that progress in both DCPS and the District's public charter schools, students must be in school. Moreover, the Committee views truancy as an early warning signal that there may be dysfunction in a child's home or at school that needs to be addressed. Thus, the Committee continued its focus on chronic absenteeism and truancy in CP 22. The Committee of the Whole and the Committee on Education held three hearings, which focused on the various laws, regulations, and initiatives undertaken to reduce truancy and chronic absenteeism. Additionally, the Chairman is a member of the Every Day Counts! Taskforce and regularly attends Taskforce meetings. Through the oversight hearings and Taskforce meetings, the Committee engaged in strong oversight and pressed the District's education-related agencies, Child and Family Services Agency, and the District's Office of the Attorney General to identify methods and services that will aid students and their families and address the reasons for why students are missing school. Much work still needs to be done in this area, and the Committee intends to continue to hold regular performance oversight hearings on this issue.

The Committee also focused on bringing transparency to how at-risk funds are used by both DCPS and the District's public charter schools and on the access at-risk students have to higher performing charter schools in the District. Through a roundtable on at-risk funding transparency⁶ and the inclusion of the "School Financial Transparency Amendment Act of 2020" in D.C. Law 23-149, the "Fiscal Year 2021 Budget Support Act of 2020," the Committee has strived to hold DCPS and the District's public charter schools accountable for how they spend dollars their at-risk funds. Moreover, the Committee recognizes that it is difficult to gain a seat in the District's best public charter schools given the number of students that apply to them each year. To address this issue, the Committee approved D.C. Act 23-511, the "Expanding Equitable Access to Great Schools Act of 2020."⁷ This legislation allows public charter schools, which have been approved by the Public Charter School Board (PCSB), to provide an enrollment preference to at-risk students. The Committee is hopeful that this legislation will enable at-risk students to have greater access to the best public charter schools in the District.

For the second half of the CP, the Committee has concentrated on the District's plans to reopen schools safely. During Fall 2020 and in response to concerns raised by various labor unions, public school staff, students, and families, the Committee of the Whole and the Committee on Education held three public oversight roundtables on the District's plans to reopen schools. During these hearings, the Committee questioned DCPS leadership about the staff capacity needed to provide in-person instruction, the readiness of school facilities, and the system's plan for addressing students or staff who exhibit symptoms or test positive for COVID-19.

The Committee has also worked to understand the learning loss students have experienced during the pandemic and what strategies the District should pursue to mitigate it. Recognizing that the pandemic is an unprecedented situation and that alleviating substantial learning loss would require innovative, yet proven methods, the Committee assembled a taskforce of public education experts and researchers in May 2020. For the past six months, the Committee has met regularly with the taskforce and gained a deeper understanding of the learning loss that is occurring in the District. The taskforce has also identified strategies that have been used to ease the learning loss that occurs annually over summer break and ways to adapt those strategies to the current situation. The Committee has used this information to guide its oversight of DCPS and public charter schools' mitigation efforts. Moreover, recommendations from this taskforce helped guide the Committee's budget priorities for the fiscal year 2021 budget.

In addition to oversight over the pre-K – 12 education system, the Committee maintained oversight of UDC during CP 22. In order for the District to have a robust cradle to grave education system, the District must invest in its only public university, and UDC must continue to improve. Through the performance and budget process, the Committee has urged UDC to raise enrollment at both its flagship and community college, develop strategies to increase private fundraising for both operational and capital project funds, improve its facilities infrastructure, and increase its graduation and completion rates. In an effort to aid the University in these areas, the Committee continued a fundraising match – for every two dollars UDC raised, the District would provide it with one dollar⁸ – and increased its capital budget so that the University can improve its facilities.

VI. SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT COMMITTEE LEGISLATION

All legislation has some significance, or else the Committee would not be legislating in the area. However, certain legislation is especially significant given its impact on the residents of the District or its contribution to more efficient, effective, or fairer government. Below is a list of some of the Committee’s most significant legislative accomplishments. In addition, the Committee’s legislative work during this Council Period has increasingly taken important racial equity imperatives into account in crafting legislation and looking toward future legislation.

- Bill 23-1, the “Comprehensive Plan Amendment Act of 2019”

The Committee significantly revised the proposed amendments submitted by the Executive to the Framework Element of the Comprehensive Plan. This included adding new sections and principles on housing and affordable housing; identifying affordable housing preservation and production, along with preventing permanent housing displacement, as a high priority community benefit; incorporating new language and principles describing equity and racial equity; developing a new section, “Zoning and the Comprehensive Plan,” to provide useful context for how the plan and maps are used when the Zoning Commission reviews discretionary development proposals, revised language and definitions describing the Generalized Policy Map (GPM) and the Future Land Use Map (FLUM) that provided greater flexibility in accommodating growth in all areas of the city, while clarifying language related to zones and development envelopes; and clarified the role of small area plans, among other items. The final framework emphasized the need for responsible development and equity.

- Bill 23-38, the “Racial Equity Achieves Results Act of 2020”

Today, a legacy of laws, policies, and practices harming Black exists, in part, due to the failure of addressing the harms done to Black residents. This lack of redress, along with the continued pervasiveness of racial stereotypes and the use of “race-blind” legal and policy frameworks by government institutions, means that racial inequities are left mostly unchallenged. To make progress in addressing racial disparities, the Committee of the Whole adopted legislation to create mechanisms to intentionally analyze the racial impacts of policies, practices, and procedures. The bill establishes an Office of Racial Equity in the Office of the City Administrator tasked with developing and advancing the District’s goals toward achieving racial equity, including developing annual metrics and a Racial Equity Action Plan. It requires the Office of Racial Equity to create a racial equity tool to help District agencies incorporate racial equity into their operations, programs, policies, and regulations. It also requires the Office of Human Rights and the D.C. Department of Human Resources to devise and implement racial equity training for all District government employees and members of the District's boards and commissions. Finally, it includes a sense of the Council to establish a racial equity program within the Council that has an explicit role in our deliberative process.

- Bill 23-91, “Department of Buildings Establishment Act of 2020”

This legislation creates the Department of Buildings (DOB) as a new subordinate agency within the Executive branch, redesignating the Department of Consumer and Regulatory Affairs as the Department of Licensing and Consumer Protection (DLCP) to reflect the revised responsibilities of that agency. The Department of Buildings will be responsible for the administration and enforcement of construction compliance, rental housing safety, and residential property maintenance activities.

- Bill 23-122, “Cashless Retailers Prohibition Act of 2020”

While cashless payment systems may be of benefit to some retailers, they have the effect of excluding the District's unbanked and underbanked population, most of whom are low-income Black residents. To ensure that this population is not further economically marginalized, this legislation prohibits retailers in the District from discriminating against cash as a form of payment for services or goods and establishes civil penalties for retailers who violate the law.

- Bill 23-132, “Residential Housing Environmental Safety Amendment Act of 2020”

The bill requires the Department of Regulatory and Consumer Affairs (DCRA) to issue a notice of infraction for significant indoor mold growth, imposes civil penalties on property owners who fail to remediate indoor mold, and requires housing inspectors employed by DCRA to obtain certification from the Department of Energy and the Environment (DOEE) to conduct indoor mold inspections. This will protect District tenants from mold and ensure that tenants do not have to rely on more than one District agency to address mold related violations.

- Bill 23-150, “Addressing Dyslexia and Other Reading Difficulties Amendment Act of 2020”

This bill seeks to improve the educational outcomes for students with reading difficulties, including dyslexia, through increased training of educators, universal screening of all K-2 public school students, greater intervention for students who demonstrate that they have a reading difficult, and adoption by local education agencies of a science-based reading curriculum. While it was also marked up by the Committee on Education, the Committee made several changes that were driven by the need to keep the fiscal impact of the bill down to a manageable level. Despite these changes, Bill 23-150 will enable the District's public schools to intervene much earlier, improving students' literacy skills, and hopefully, improve the number of students who are proficient in reading and language arts.

- Bill 23-234, the “Commemoration Task Force Act of 2020”

On May 25th, George Floyd, a 46-year old Black man in Minneapolis, was killed by a police officer who suffocated him with his knee, leading to a wave of protests across the country against racism and police brutality. Some factions of these protests targeted commemorations of the Confederate States of America, toppling or defacing numerous monuments to racist historical figures. At the same time, numerous state and local governments announced their own plans to remove racist memorials and commemorations. The District is not exempt from such commemorations in its boundaries. It is the Committee's view that commemoration and the naming of public spaces should be both to honor and inspire. It must be recognized that when the name honors a person there are seldom bright lines in history.

This legislation creates a Commemoration Task Force to reexamine the District's inventory utilizing the information already gathered by the Executive that details the monuments and named places. The Task Force will report to the Council what commemorative works or public space names it deems to be racist, oppressive, hateful, or offensive, and its reasoning behind that recommendation. It will also recommend what action should be taken regarding the offending commemoration such as removal, relocation, renaming, alteration, or installation of additional interpretive elements.

- Bill 23-316, the "Tax Revision Commission Reestablishment Amendment Act of 2020"

In the years since implementing the 2013 recommendations of the previous Tax Revision Commission, there have been an increasing number of proposals to increase various District taxes on an ad hoc basis. Many of these measures were focused on spending needs without broad consideration to the overall tax code. Most amendments to raise taxes during recent budget debates were not proposed or debated until the date of consideration of the budget. Indeed, most tax increases have not been considered on their merits through the Council committee process and are only proposed as a means to increase revenues during budget consideration. Bill 23-316 will establish a new Tax Revision Commission to look at our revenues holistically. A Tax Revision Commission can examine our tax policy independent of our spending priorities and can make expert recommendations to the Council on a prudent path forward to ensure that the District remains competitive in the region, that our taxes remain the most progressive nationwide, and that we have adequate revenues to meet our growing needs. The final bill as adopted also requires the Commission to due its work with through a lens of racial equity.

- Bill 23-456, the "Abatement and Condemnation of Nuisance Properties Act of 2020"

The Tenant Receivership Act (TRA) is a District law that allows the Attorney General to ask a judge to appoint a "Receiver" to address chronic health and safety issues at a rental property. This legislation improves the current process by authorizing the Office of the Attorney General to issue subpoenas for documents and testimony, pre-suit, as part of a receivership investigation, authorizing the Court to order anyone in the care and control of the property to contribute funds in excess of the rents to abate violations, providing for the relocation of displaced tenants and the upkeep and debts of the building while in receivership, and clarifying the Superior Court's authority when ending a receivership—to ensure reimbursement to the District and allow the court to enjoin similar neglect at other properties.

- Bill 23-965, "Displaced Workers Right to Reinstatement and Retention Amendment Act of 2020"

This bill protects hospitality (hotel, restaurant, and entertainment and event venues) and retail workers that were most impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic, as well as contract workers who are already covered by D.C. Law 10-105, the “Displaced Workers Protection Act of 1994.” Thousands of workers in these categories have lost their jobs due to the pandemic, and as the pandemic ends and the District’s economy is able to resume normal operations, these workers need the ability to return to their jobs, if they are still available. The bill provides two distinct provisions – a right to reinstatement and a right for employees to convey to a new employer should there a change in the controlling interest or identity of the employer. Because this bill is aimed at protecting workers impacted by COVID-19, the bill sunsets on June 30, 2024.
